Student From Nairobi Arrives At Evergreen

On September 27, 1961, a student from Africa arrived at Loyola College "to further his education in the United States". His name is Joseph Peter Gathungu, and his home is Nairobi, Kenya, East Africa.

Joseph is here at Loyola on a scholarship provided by the Consolato Fathers, an order of Italian missionaries working in Joseph's district of Africa. He was selected for the scholarship on the basis on his high school record.

Joe Gathungu from Kenya, Africa

African Education

Obtaining his primary and secondary education in his native Africa, he completed his high school education at a government school at Embu, 80 miles north of Nairobi.

Junior Clerk

After a lapse of almost two years, during which he worked as a clerk in a bank, Joseph decided to pursue his studies once again. He received the scholarship from the Consolato Fathers in August of this year. Joseph financed his way to the United States from the money he saved while he was working.

Chem Major

Joseph plans to major in Chemistry and hopes to return to his native Nairobi to be a chemistry teacher.

We of the Greyhound would like to take this occasion to welcome our visitor from Africa and hope that his stay in the states will be as profitable and rewarding as we know our association with him will be.

Freshmen Welcome Dance Features Swingtone Music

Tomorrow night Loyola's social season will formally begin with the presentation of the "Freshmen Welcome Dance." The dance which is sponsored by the Sophomore class, will be held in the gym from 9 till 1. Students and their dates will dance to the delightful music of the Swing-Tones, a local group of some reknown.

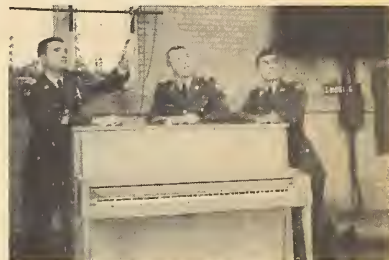

Arrangements for the dance are being made by a host of capable and willing Sophomores. Chuck Lancelotta, Sophomore class President, is chairman of the Ticket Committee. Reservations are being handled by Buzz Rusinko. Jerry Dotterweich is the chairman of the Refreshment Committee, while Richard Lawrence is handling Invitations. Both John Nozemack and Ray Messick are planning the Decorations. The Clean-up Committee is guided by Bryan Copenhaver with Assistance from the class member.

Better Decor

Lancelotta has stated that his year's decorations will be much more elaborate than those of last year, and he forecasts a record crowd. According to him plans for this year's dance are running quite smoothly, thanks to the help and suggestions received from members of last year's committee. As usual after all Saturday night dances, a Mass will follow in the Chapel.

Tickets On Sale

Tickets are on sale for $3.50. They may be obtained from Sophomores Chuck Lancelotta, Jerry Dotterweich, and Buzz Rusinko, from Juniors Ed Slawski and Pete Genovese, and from Senior Dick Moore.

(L. to r.) Chuck Lancelotta discuss dance arrangements with Jerry Dotterweich and Buzz Rusinko.

Spot News

Holidays Extended

The administration announced earlier this week that the Christmas Holidays will be extended two days, which will include the weekend. The day college will close on December 15 after the last class instead of December 19.

Junior Info

Installment payments of $5 are now being accepted for the Junior Prom. For the name of your philosophy section representative or other information see Vincent Baldini or the latest issue of the Junior Journal.

Poetry In Motion

The National Poetry Association announces its annual College Students "Poetry Anthology." The closing date for the submission of manuscripts by students is November 5. Any student is eligible to submit his verse. There is no limitation as to form or theme, although shorter works are preferred. For more information see Henry Becker.

State Dept. Exam

The U.S. Department of State will hold the next written Foreign Service Office Examination on December 9, 1961. The exam is open to men between the ages of 21 and 31 years of age as of October 23. The closing date for filing the application is October 23, 1961. Candidates who are successful in the one-day exam will receive jobs in one of the Department's Head-quarters in Washington or in one of the 290 American Embassies, Legations or Consulates abroad. For more information see Mr. Francis X. Moritz in the Placement Office, Room F-5.

Honors Projects Engage Over Twenty Students

During the academic year 1960-1 more than twenty students participated in seven honors projects in History, French, German, English, and Ethics. During the present semester four students are participating in an honor projects in History. Additional honors projects are contemplated for the spring semester in other departments.

In general the honors projects consist of extensive reading in a particular field, together with the preparation of a paper or papers to be discussed with the professor or to be presented in a seminar of students pursuing related projects.

Extensive Experiments

In the sciences the honors projects consist of extensive laboratory experiments with suitable discussion and reports.

The work of students enrolled in honor projects may be accepted in place of or, in addition to, regular course requirements. In some cases students may be excused from the necessity of class attendance. In all cases a notation of successful honors work is made on the student's record.

Encouragement

Full encouragement is given to the departments to inaugurate and to develop various honors projects. Any department is permitted an honors project with qualified students.

(L. to r.) Fr. Lavin, Mr. Colimore and Fr. Campbell discuss last year's honors projects.

Campus Survey To Decide On Language Clubs

The Management Club of Loyola, in cooperation with the Wolf and Kettle Society (formerly the A.S.O.), has prepared a questionnaire which they would like the student body to fill out and place in the box near the Campus Shop today. The questionnaire appears at the top right-hand corner of page three in this issue.

Purpose

The purpose of this project, the results of which will be tabulated by the Statistics Committee of the Management Club, is to decide whether or not the installation of one or more Modern Language Clubs on campus would be advantageous for the students and for the school. These clubs would produce a three-fold benefit for students interested in the Modern Languages offered here at the college.

Benefits

First, a knowledge of modern languages is frequently useful in graduate school, and this would provide the members with the opportunity to retain the proficiency which they acquired in high school and the first two years in college.

Also, some students might feel that they can obtain a knowledge which they desire for their own edification, and which would not sufficiently stimulate them to take on the work accompanied by an extra course.

Whether or not a student will need the language in later life, he will feel a desire to protect or increase the knowledge which he possesses.

For these reasons, we ask you to please fill out this questionnaire now!

Merci Bien

Earlier this week Father Galvin made it known that the proposed Christmas vacation would begin two days earlier than scheduled, in order to benefit the large number of students who financially depend on Post Office employment. We suspect that this decision was encouraged by a plea made to Father Galvin by the Student Council, in which the Council requested the additional days be granted.

The Greyhound believes it can speak for the student body in expressing a sincere "thank you" to the Administration for their thoughtfulness and decision on this matter.

the Watchdog

It is rumored, at the present time, that the Student Council has sent the following letter to the Dean of Men. Quote:

Dear Father Bourbon,

Since you are the esteemed leader of the school and should be recognized as such by the students, we have decided to bestow a special honor on your person. Henceforth every morning when you arrive at the Student Union Building, the students in the cafeteria will stand and sing "God Save The Dean of Men."

The Student Council Father Bourbon's reported answer was brief:

Dear Student Council,

Your suggestion was not only ridiculous but redundant.

Hey, You #/ @¢

Incidentally, Father Bourbon has given us the reason that he stays so close to the floor during Loyola dances, and we were really amazed. To think that in this day and age people are still listening for wagon trains.

Our condolences to all of the seniors who were theoretically burned to death last Monday morning during the fire drill. It seems that Father Higgins was sure that since it was only a drill he could allow his students to finish their tests without risk. However, he was only partly right. We hear that most of his students were burning- slowly.

What Is A Rumpkin?

Mr. Hoegberg

In this fourth of a series initiated by The Greyhound in order to introduce the recent additions of the faculty to the Student Body, we welcome to Evergreen Mr. Norman Hoegberg. Our new teacher is attached to the English Department, of which Father Lavin is chairman.

Mr. Hoegberg has many obstacles to hurdle in this, his first full year of teaching since he completed his graduate studies at the University of Wisconsin, but his qualifications speak well for him. He received a Woodrow Wilson fellowship from Princeton in 1960, thus allowing him to go on to his M.A. in English which he worked on, as was mentioned, at Wisconsin. However, here is an interesting sidelight to this fellowship: Mr. Helgberg considers was President of the institution. These preceptorials are composed of 10 or less students and are forums (similar to Loyola's honor seminars) where the members openly and, sometimes, heatedly discuss various topics as the presiding professor tries to direct the channels of learning.

Also while at Princeton, our new faculty member entered into the state of marital bliss, when he was married between semesters of his freshmen year. Now married 5 years, he and his wife have two children, a boy and a girl. He also knows that unnerving experience of becoming a father at the time of semester finals and confesses frankly to "not studying a thing" at the time.

Tough Topics

As a goal, Mr. Hoegberg would like to resume full-time study in the future and obtain his Ph. D. in English. As of now, though, he is undecided between Chaucer or Henry James as the subject for his dissertation.

Knowing that the road ahead is always not easy, we wish Mr. Hoegberg the best of luck. However, I'd say anyone who could survive two children and college and still receive a fellowship, has something going for him; and, we hope it continues!

Mr. Hoegberg sits on Millbrook steps after a brisk walk.

himself a "Rumpkin" in that he just got in on the tail end of the 32 fellowships which were awarded at Princeton that year.

Former Tiger

While at Princeton, Mr. Hoegberg was a student in the Special Program for the humanities. This was an advanced course which allowed him to complete his studies in 3 years and to work on his thesis in the fourth year. As a special student, he was also a member of the preceptorials which were instituted by Woodrow Wilson when he

"Real cool, man, real cool!" This beat-en expression refers to the surpassing merit of the music in "Paris Blues," not to the temperature. The plot and the acting are a little warmer and may leave the audience a little cold.

Paul Neuman plays Ram Bowen, a real gone trombone artist, who seems to have women as his avocation and spends much of his film time crawling in and out of bed. Neuman still remains the sexiest actor since Maidenform ads. But his acting ability does not quite rank him with the Barrymores.

Joanne Woodward presents a new face of Eve. As a divorced mother of two she comes to Paris in search of what everyone comes to Paris in search of. However, as the mother of two, she still has a lot to learn, and much of the picture elaborates on her educative process.

The third member of the triumvirate is Sidney Poitier. This relatively young Negro actor plays the most convincing role in the picture. As Eddie Cook, a saxophonist and arranger for Ram, he serves as a support for a badly sagging and sogging plot. One of the saving features of the movie is its treatment of the race question. It is not a crusade.

Without a doubt the best note in the show is the music. Written by Duke Ellington, the score bears the mark of that style which has long ranked the Duke as a great. Much of the music is played by Neuman and Cook who are about as familiar with their instruments as John D. Rockefeller with the poor house.

Besides the above mentioned, Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong also makes an appearance as a visiting jazz great named Wild Man Moore and he lives the role as only he can.

The movie for all the faults is very enjoyable, especially if you are a music lover. The jazz is "Trad, day, and the coolest!" The show is nothing more than it really proposes to be, a kind of Paris American Bandstand.

If you are interested in a high-type intellectual drama, with a long "a", don't go to see "Paris Blues." But if you desire to view a picture for pure enjoyment with the only prerequisite being a sympathetic heart and a love of a good sound, dig "Paris Blues."

STICKS AND STONES

Well tomorrow night is the big night! The Freshmen Welcome Dance will be held in the gym and cafeteria from 9 to 1, with music supplied by the Swingtones, or as one of the posters reads-Swingtons.

Last year's Freshmen Dance was acclaimed by many as the best dance ever to be held at Evergreen. If this evaluation were based on the prices charged, this year's dance should be extremely better!

To refresh the memory of the student body (and in the case of the Freshmen, to inform you), the prices charged were $3.00 for advance sale, $3.25 at the door for tickets, and 50¢ for table reservations. This year, however, the planners of the dance have deemed it necessary to raise the price to $3.50 for all tickets, and 50¢ for table reservations!

Arguing about 25¢ or 50¢ may seem petty, but such is not the case!!! I and many others cannot see the reason(s) for these high prices. I feel that, if the Class of 1963 can suffice on their profits they made by charging their prices, (even after encountering "donations" and the like) the Class of 1964 could suffice also!!

It seems to me and others that the dance officials are more concerned with making money than they are with providing the STUDENTS with a good dance at a reasonable price!!!

So let's get the record straight: This dance and all others are held for the STUDENTS!!! Most Loyola men have to work all summer, and some work part-time during the school year, to meet their regular college expenses. Could it be that the Officers of the Class of 1964, in planning this dance, overlooked this fact, or is it possible, that since they don't have to pay these outrageous prices, they did not want to consider this fact?

Note to the Green and Gray:
It's Gorman series, not German!

GREYHOUND SPORTS

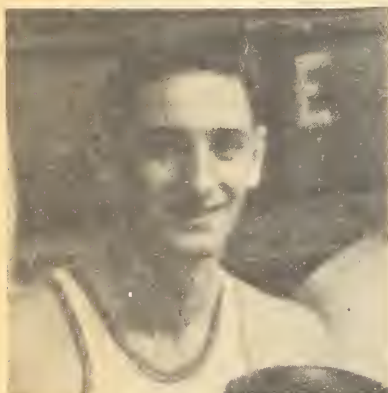

By Tom Kenney

A few weeks ago, the News Post carried a story listing the Colts' and Orioles' itineraries on typical road trips. After seeing this, we thought that perhaps the Loyola students would be interested in reading a short travelogue of the Hound soccer and crosscountry teams' trip into Virginia last weekend.

The teams left Evergreen on Thursday afternoon at 3 P.M. on their chartered bus. By approximately 6 P.M., they had reached the small town of Warrenton Va. where they stopped for supper. After the stop, they pushed off again, arriving at Poole's motel in Salem Va. at 11:30 P.M. The travelers were safely bedded down by midnight.

At 7:30 A.M. Friday, breakfast was served in the Roanoke College cafeteria which is a mere two blocks away from the motel. The Hounds were then on their own until the training meal at 11:30 A.M. After the game and x-country meet, the athletes again ate at the college and had a night on the town until bed-check at 11:30 P.M.

After breakfasting in Salem on Saturday morning, the Hounds boarded their bus for the 50 mile trip to Lynchburg. The training meal was at 11:30 A.M. Before and after the athletic events, the Hound athletes had time to look over the Lynchburg campus. Supper was in the college cafe at 5:30 P.M. after which the tired athletes boarded the bus again, arriving back in Baltimore at 4 A.M. on Sunday morning.

Captain Jim Kennedy

Soccer Captains Have Busy Days

Charley Graham and Jim Kennedy, Loyola's soccer co-captains, are two hard-working Loyola students. Charley, besides playing soccer and wrestling, is a major in the tough pre-med course. He also played lacrosse for two years. Jim Kennedy, who plays soccer, basketball and baseball, has good grades in his business major. He is a standout in all three of his sports.

Any students who can't seem to find enough time to do things might see Charley and Jim for some help in planning a busy schedule.

The Hound runners square off against a strong Towson squad.

Booters Seek First Win Against C. U. Tomorrow

The Hound soccer team ran into some tough luck in its first three games. They dropped all three by the same score, 1-0.

On Tuesday, October 3, the Towson State booters scored in the last 30 seconds of the game to defeat Loyola 1-0. The Greyhounds played a good game, hustling all the way, but they were just unable to get their offense rolling.

Last Friday, at Salem, Virginia, the Hound booters dropped their second straight to Roanoke, again by the 1-0 margin. The two squads had battled through 89 minutes of scoreless play when, with 30 seconds remaining in the second overtime period, John Dunlap, a Freshman reserve for the hosts, put the ball in the nets to provide the margin of victory. The Roanoke goalie made many spectacular saves as Loyola bombed the Roanoke goal 26 times. However, the Hounds scored no direct hit. Denny Grabowski had two near misses as his shots bounced off the goal posts.

Hounds Lose To Lynchburg

The next afternoon, Loyola visited Lynchburg and again came away losers by the same 1-0 score. The Hornets scored early and held down the Hound offense the rest of the game.

The Hounds will be getting a complex about these 1-0 scores. However, the players feel that the team will be okay after they score that first goal. The Greyhound offensive line has not been able to penetrate the 9 man defenses which the other teams have been throwing up. Dennis Grabowski, the Hounds great scoring threat, has hardly had a clean shot at the nets.

The Hound booters will play Catholic University here tomorrow at 2:30 P.M. For the next two weeks then, they will be on the road, meeting Western Maryland, Baltimore University, and John Hopkins on October 21, 25, and 28 respectively.

Harriers Start Quickly C. U. Contest Tomorrow

The Hound harriers have had a busy week, with three meets in five days, and yet have come up unscathed by Towson State, Roanoke, or Lynchburg. On Tuesday, Oct. 3, Rick Frampton--ably assisted by Lew Smith and Hand McGraw--romped to victory over the Teachers by a margin of 25-31. All five veterans, Frampton, Smith, McGraw, Tom Kenney, Bill Jenkins, and also soph Dan Leubecker finished in the top ten.

Led by the same six men, all again all in the top ten, the squad tied a strong Roanoke team, 28-28, last Friday. The bright spot of the day was the sparkling time, 16:34, handed in by Rick Frampton over the 3.1 mile course. Sophs Mike Kenney and Wil Turk, who is hampered by an injured foot, also finished high in the field.

Tired--But Happy

The squad, again led by Frampton, Smith, and McGraw, who all finished ahead of Lynchburg's No. 1 man, soundly thumped the Hornets on Saturday afternoon, 23-32. Tom Kenney, Dan Leubecker, and Bill Jenkins finished seventh, tenth, and eleventh respectively.

Greyhounds Or Mountain Goats?

Although Frampton's time, 17:17, over a 3.1 mile Lynchburg course, may not sound as good as Friday's, it was just as outstanding because the Lynchburg course is perhaps the most rugged in either division of the M-D Conference. It is in a mountainous setting, and is replete with everything that nature can throw at harriers. The Hounds could have been mistaken for mountain goats, as they chased across the hilly course, wading and jumping streams, and hurdling fallen logs along the way.

First Six Consistent

The consistency of the 5 runners, Frampton, Smith, Kenney, McGraw, and Leubecker is truly significant of the team's strength and balance. These 5 have all finished in the top ten in each of the first three meets. Junior Bill Jenkins, the sixth man, has not been far behind.

The so far undefeated Greyhounds met the Mountaineers this past Wednesday in Emmitsburg. Tomorrow Loyola plays host to visiting harriers from C.U. at 2:30. Last year C.U. came out on top, 25.5-29.5.

Sports Shorts

Loyola Celtics

Nap Doherty, being an Irishman himself, seems to be trying to build an all-Irish cage squad. The names of his Freshman prospects are: Flynn, Maher, McCarthy, McKendry and Morris. Will Nap rename the squad the Loyola Celtics?

New Booters

Kenwood and St. Joe have made welcome contributions to this year's Hound soccer squad. Paul Cashour and John Kircher from St. Joe and Jack Palmer and Harry Bregel of Kenwood are either starters or front line reserves for Loyola.

Schedules Changes

Two additions have been made to the Loyola sports schedule this winter. The swimmers will play host to St. Peters of New Jersey on Dec. 15 at 4 P.M. and the Hound matmen will entertain Bucknell here on Jan. 26 at 3:30 P.M.

Intramural Items

The Intramural Fall Sports Program is now into its second week of play. There are only a few early results since today is the first day on which a full schedule of sports will be played.

Sharks Down Squares

On Wednesday October 4, the touch football season opened. In the first game the Hawks won by forfeit over the Vikings. The Vikings are all Pershing Rifle members, and their meeting coincided with the game. In the other game, the Sharks turned back the Square Root of Three by a score of 12 to 6. The Sophomore Sharks opened the scoring when Lathrumb punted and scored on the same play on a recovered Square Root of Three fumble. In that play the ball bounced straight up and Lathrumb picked it off in mid-air on a dead run. The Square Root of Three came right back and capitalized on a Shark miscue. Schroeder intercepted a pass and dashed 40 yards for a touchdown. The game saw-sawed back and forth for the next three periods until the Sharks scored on the last play of the game. Hickey caught a pass from Krac and ran 40 yards for the winning touchdown.

Tennis Finals Set

In the intramural tennis tournament last week, two matches were contested. In the first one, Sweitzer defeated Pisarski 6-0, then Sweitzer lost to Tontz 6-1. The two finalists in the tourney, Russ Tontz and Larry McCanna, are both Freshmen hailing from Loyola and St. Joe respectively. Please check the bulletin boards for future announcements concerning intramurals.

No Bowling Results

As of this moment there are no bowling results to report. However, it is understood that the rollers are now in full swing.
